

ART OF HOSTING CONVERSATIONS THAT MATTER

Minneapolis/St. Paul March 25-27, 2014

Bring your questions, curiosity, real world work challenges and issues. Bring your passion, heart, courage and vulnerability. In the spirit of co-discovering, co-learning and co-evolving. Discover how to intentionally shift the shape of your conversations to get to different results.

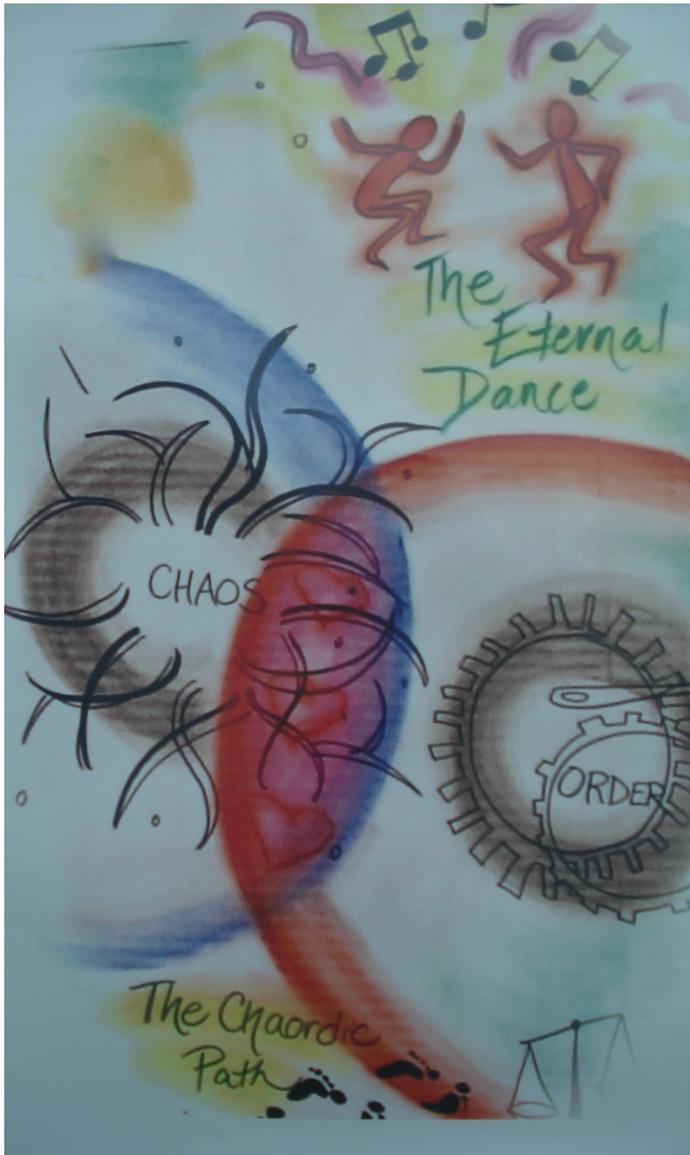

Fostering Conditions for Community Engagement

We live and work in increasingly complex times. The Art of Hosting Conversations that Matter is a set of patterns and practices for addressing complexity. The World View of AoH asks us to be curious and nonjudgemental and invites generosity of spirit and actions. We believe conversation matters and that good conversation leads to wise action generating different results.

A new set of leadership skills is being cultivated. Skills that tune into and are responsive to ambiguity and emergent circumstances, that foster generative conversations where perspectives can collide to spark new ways of thinking. Skills that invite engagement in whole new ways - in our communities, systems, organizations and teams. tapping into collective wisdom, knowledge and intelligence inherent in any group, any system, any community.

These leadership skills invite us to show up in the fullness of who we are by growing self awareness and sense of personal power, becoming present to ourselves and each other, listening with new depth, stepping into co-hosting and co-creation. We are in the space between narratives. What is the new narrative you want to be part of co-creating?

What happens when we grow our courage and resilience in working with the status quo that says it wants to change but doesn't seem to know how?

“Look for small steps of things you can do with people with whom you traditionally would never have cooperated - and do something useful, no matter how small.”

Peter Senge

“Power is the strength and the ability to see yourself through your own eyes and not through the eyes of another. It is being able to place a circle of power at your feet and not take power from someone else’s circle.”

Lynne V. Andrews, Flight of the Seventh Moon

Three Days - Not for Spectators

What is it?

This three day intensive is designed for you to experience and learn simple yet powerful processes that build community, activate collective intelligence, foster individual and collaborative leadership practices, tap into the inspiration and collective brainpower of your teams, stakeholders and community members, sparking and sustaining imagination to drive innovative thinking and foster high value output.

Who Should Come?

Forward thinking leaders, other innovators, organizational and community leaders who are seeking higher impact ways to engage, inspire and activate innovation and business value within their teams and stakeholders. Come prepared to step in, step up and practice.

What to Bring?

Bring your key issues, challenges, existing and emerging projects, provocative questions. The stuff you are working on now - or want to begin soon. Bring your team, a colleague, a sparring partner, an ally. You will gain a common language, frame of reference to support each other and fuel your courage.

your hosting team:

We are particularly inspired by the power of true collaboration, the strategic impact of leadership that leverages networks and relationships for innovation, engagement and wise sustainable action. We are involved in collaborative contexts locally and around the world.

Dave Elliis is a Principal Consultant at Three E Consulting, a group dedicated to using Art of Hosting Conversations That Matter for strategic planning and community engagement. He has hosted discussions with groups ranging from 10 to 800 participants on topics from strategic planning for communities and nonprofits to community engagement with state and other agencies. Dave was a Community Impact Partnership Manager at Greater Twin Cities United Way for over 5 years, and an employee with the Minnesota Department of Corrections (DOC) who retired after 20+ years of service. He now facilitates community and agency strategic planning sessions.

AOH - A SET OF PATTERNS AND PRACTICES THAT INVITE US TO SHOW UP HUMAN TO HUMAN, WORKING ACROSS IMAGINED AND REAL BOUNDARIES TO DO GOOD, MEANINGFUL WORK TOGETHER

Kathy Jourdain is passionate about co-creative leadership and creating the conditions to help shift the shape of our work at a time it is most needed in the world. She is a steward and practitioner of the Art of Hosting Conversations that Matter and is recognized for her prolific writing (<http://shapeshiftstrategies.wordpress.com/>) on what she is learning as she co-hosts on training and consulting teams in Canada, Brazil and the United States. As a process artist, she sees AoH as a metaphor for the longing in the world to be in relationship together. She has recently published her first book: Embracing the Stranger in Me: A Journey to Openheartedness

Jerry Nagel believes strongly that participatory leadership and dialogue processes create communities and organizations where people are treated with respect and where there is an opportunity for all voices to be present and to be heard. These processes bring forth the knowledge, wisdom and leadership capacity that is within each of us, our organizations, and our communities. Jerry is deeply committed to hosting meaningful conversations around many of our most difficult issues, including race, gender, age, sexual orientation and political and economic power. Jerry is co-founder of the Meadowlark Institute (www.Meadowlark.co), an organization committed to developing our individual and collective capacity to engage in meaningful conversations with those who hold different traditions, values and goals.

Barbara (Bob-e) Simpson-Epps has spent a lifetime working to enhance the operations and effectiveness of organizations in both the public and private sectors. Deeply committed to strong, healthy and resilient communities, she has used her expertise to build and sustain diverse environments. Bob-e is a recent Bush Fellow and plans to engage others in creating a system-wide, community-based and culturally-specific approach to address trauma- and stress-induced health issues in the lives of African American and American Indian children and families using the Adverse Childhood Experiences Study (ACES) and brain research.

“Leadership in complexity requires different skills than traditional models of leadership. It requires us to think of leadership as inquiry, and this in turn means that we need to think much more critically about the kinds of questions that we ask. It may not be the answers that need changing, but the questions.”
Brenda Zimmerman
